Disability Officer - Patrick Moule

About me

- As a born and bred working-class Londoner, I know the opportunities our city can offer people from all walks of life, and the difference Labour makes in power – but I know how hard it can be, too
- I've been an active Labour Party member for almost two decades, helping out in and running campaigns across London – serving as a ward and CLP officer, LCF delegate, Councillor and election agent
- I'm also a lifelong trade unionist, serving the movement on the picket line, in negotiations with management, and as a loud advocate for the rights and dignity of disabled people in the workplace

My priorities

- If elected, I will push for the accessibility benefits of lockdown – such as remote access to meetings and mass Dialogue sessions – to be retained wherever possible
- We need more comrades with disabilities standing for election at every level: I will work with members to build a regional toolkit to help recruit, retain and promote people with disabilities into public office in London
- I will campaign on the shameful 20% disability pay gap – every major employer should be duty-bound to publish their pay gap data and act on it
